Tim Burgess Profited Millions from Right-Wing Hate Messages

As the owner of the Domain Group, Tim Burgess carried on a nearly decade-long relationship with Concerned Women for America, a far right group that is anti-choice, anti-public schools, opposes contraception and equates gays and lesbians with pedophiles.

“To be real honest, I knew who they were and I knew what their messages are when we took them as a client,” Burgess acknowledged. (Seattle P-I 10/17/07)

In 2003 alone, CWA paid Burgess’s company over $328,000 to produce their hate messages. (Source: IRS 990 form)

“Burgess now admits under pressure that his firm earned $2 million plus from helping to write/prepare the hate monger mailings...There is no room for his lack of integrity in the roster of political leadership. Vote against Burgess.”

CONCERNED WOMEN FOR AMERICA

April 1999

Dear CWA Member,

I am terribly frightened for our children and grandchildren.

I know these are strong words. I don't use them lightly. And I don't mean to alarm you.

But I don't know how else I can describe a major new effort to recruit innocent children into the tragically destructive homosexual lifestyle.

Radical homosexuals are using a shocking video called It's Elementary to destroy precious boys and girls.

I wrote CWA members about It's Elementary a year ago. I honestly wish I didn't have to write you about it again. But the video's producers have announced plans to air their program on public television stations across the nation this June.

They say the video aims to promote "tolerance" toward homosexuals and make America's schools "safe" places for them.

In reality, the video is a wolf in sheep's clothing. It is slick propaganda to persuade teachers and others to actually convert children to homosexuality.

To be blunt, homosexuals are doing all they can to cultivate a new generation of sex partners. And It's Elementary is one way they plan to do it. Children are literally being preyed upon, and they--and their parents--don't even know it.

This makes my blood boil. We can't just idly sit by while the homosexuals do this!

I'm sure you agree with me that it is absolutely wrong to use taxpayer-supported public television for this purpose!

That is why I need you to sign the enclosed petitions to express your outrage to your senators. They control how much government funding public television stations receive. They need to know immediately

For instance, this year CWA will be fighting to stop legislation that, if passed, would dramatically advance the homosexual agenda in every community in America, including yours. We will be opposing federal control of education of your children or grandchildren. We are backing efforts to repeal legislation that could result in you being required to carry a federal ID card.

The enclosed legislative priorities list many issues like these. Please make your views known! Rank the list, sign your name on the letter to Speaker Hastert, and then return both documents with your best contribution to CWA.

Your active participation is critical to making sure CWA continues to fight for the 14th Amendment. Thank you for your
